FROM THE RABBI

Elections

As I write this column, elections are being held in Brazil. Tuesday, there will be elections in Israel and next week are the midterm elections in the United States.

Elections are vital to democracy and important for all of us, but let's not forget something that is even more important for us as Jews.

Unity! As essential as the outcome of the elections are, the unity of the Jewish community is more critical to our existence. History has proven that the strength of our people is when we stand together. Elections are temporary, unity is permanent.

- Rabbi Zushe Greenberg
