FROM THE RABBI

Hurricane Melissa

As we are watching the terrifying hurricane battering Jamaica — our hearts ache, knowing that our cousin, Chabad Rabbi Yaakov Raskin, with his wife and young children are trapped along with so many others.

We just read the Torah story of Noah and the Flood. In those times, people didn't feel responsible for one another.

The lesson from Noah's story is that when something happens to another person — whether it's our brother, a friend, or anyone in the world — we must feel as if it's happening to us. We are all connected, and our care and actions can help rebuild the world.

- Rabbi Zushe Greenberg
